

Seaweed Salesmen

Schoolboys' seaweed harvest gets under way on a Bermuda beach.

Some 20 Bermuda schoolboys are looking forward to a four-week trip to Europe this summer—and seaweed will help to foot the bill.

The boys are members of the Hamilton Junior Greens football (soccer) club. They go to six different schools—the main thing they have in common is their interest in their team.

They plan to start their vacation with a visit to Great Britain, taking in the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh. They'll only be spectators at the Games, although they do hope to play against a few youth clubs while they're in Scotland. Afterwards they'll go on to Scandinavia, Germany and Holland.

The trip is going to cost around $10,000. And that's a lot of money for schoolboys—hence the venture into the seaweed business. This is the club's largest single money-raising project, but it's not the only one. They ran a fair in March, made and sold kites for Good Friday, and hope to make and sell punts for $20 apiece. They'll also do any other type of odd job: washing windows, cleaning cars, what you will.

The idea of using seaweed as a fertilizer isn't new to commercial agriculture. The idea of supplying it to homes with small gardens is. The boys take orders, collect the seaweed from the beaches, stuff it into bags weighing around 70 lbs each when full, deliver them and even spread the seaweed on the garden. They charge about a $1 per bag.

Business is thriving, the gardens are blooming, and that well-earned holiday jaunt grows daily nearer and nearer.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

PERFUME NOT APPRECIATED
Dear Helen: I am allergic to perfume and strong aromas. I'm sure others have this problem too.

But nowadays, heavy smells are in. Even men wear after shave and lotions that make me have sneezing fits.

Smokers are being more considerate lately and avoiding buses, elevators, classroom and the like, but perfume-pots never think they annoy anyone.

I have had to avoid meetings in small rooms, parties, and luncheons because the scents (to me they're "stinks") make me ill.

Why do people douse themselves with perfume when a little goes such a long way?—SNEEZY

Dear Sneezy: A wearer of perfume is hardly ever aware it is overdone because she (he) gets so accustomed to the aroma she no longer notices it.

A good rule: Because too much perfume is almost as bad as too little soap, use it sparingly. Scents, like expensive clothes, should be understated.—H.

Dear Helen: You said men aren't supposed to have wedding showers. Well, my husband did and it was a howling success. I had had an abundance of parties, and my friends felt my husband-to-be was left out. So they planned a personal shower, complete with spaghetti dinner, presents, the works.

Every guy invited came, and they all kept the secret so he was completely surprised. Cards ranged from "In Deepest Sympathy" to hearts and flowers, and you wouldn't believe the gifts! Along with hand-embroidered undershirts, he got a bonanza of shirts, ties, pajamas, socks: The best haul of the wedding.

A couple of the fellows dressed up as barmaids to serve dinner. They had a blast.

I don't see why men can't have part of the nuptial fun. All they get is the bachelor party which usually leaves them in no shape for the wedding next day.—MRS. R.O.

Dear Helen: My boy friend is in Vietnam and will be getting his R and R leaves soon in Hawaii. His folks are going over there to see him and have asked me to go along. They'll pay most of my expenses. It will be a birthday gift from him and them.

We're almost engaged and, though we haven't set the wedding date yet, we do plan on getting married after he's out of the Service.

My folks are undecided. They don't know whether it would be proper for me to go to Hawaii with Ted's parents. I say we'll be well chaperoned and besides, we're very trustworthy.

They suggest I write to you. Advice, please?—HOPEFUL

Dear Hopeful: Have a lovely trip, but remember those three little words: "We're very trustworthy."—H.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Cripple Creek, Colo., was a boom town that yielded more than $400 million in gold ore. A cowpuncher named Bob Womack discovered the first gold in Poverty Gulch in 1891. The World Almanac says. Ironically, Womack died poor but his discovery made 28 people millionaires, and brought 30,000 people to the town. Situated 9,600 feet high in the Rocky Mountains, the town today has about 550 residents.

MRS. ANN LUCK, MRS. DOROTHY WEBB, MRS. EVA BELLE KLIPSCH

The Hempstead County Republican Women's Club was hostess Wednesday noon at the Town and Country for a visit from Mrs. Dorothy Webb, President of the Arkansas Federation of Republican Women, and Mrs. Ann Luck of Nashville, Tenn. who is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. Eva Belle Klipsch, President of the Hempstead County Republican Women, introduced Mrs. Webb who introduced Mrs. Luck, who has been active in building the two-party system in Tennessee for several years, serving as President of the Tennessee Federation before being elected to the National Board as Director for Region 5.

She said Arkansas is the first of the States to be visited and she is impressed by the warmth and enthusiasm of the Clubs visited so far. She gave many helpful pointers on how the National and State organizations can help the local Clubs with their problems.

Out of town visitors were Mrs. J.C. Randolph of Prescott and Mrs. Foster Altenbaumer of Ashdown.

Mrs. Ruth McElroy, Business Director, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, spoke Monday to the Office Practice students at Red River Vocational Technical School.

With the aid of a tape recorder and drawings she showed the students how to put a smile in their voices and the importance of having the right attitude on the job.

Mrs. McElroy, concluded with the film "I RATHER LIKE YOU MR. BELL", which showed how history might have been changed

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Animal World," which replaced Pat Paulsen's short-lived comedy series on ABC Thursday night, really made a return instead of a premiere.

The series of actuality programs about wildlife was launched as a summer replacement called "Animal Kingdom" on NBC in 1968. There was a tangle over the title with Marlin Perkins and "Wild Kingdom," also on NBC, and the title was changed. Then last summer the series moved to CBS for a few months.

Now set for the summer on ABC, "Animal World" appears in danger of running out of networks, but not if all its programs are as interesting and appealing as the season's opener. It had all of the charm of that old CBS series starring Clarence the cross-eyed lion and a lot more authenticity.

The half-hour program was the first of a two-part sequence showing the efforts of the Malaysian government to save the orangutan, a friendly, human-like ape which has been hunted — for zoos and pets — until it is threatened with extinction.

The government set up a sort of orangutan nursery in the rain forests of Borneo where orphaned or kidnaped little apes are restored to health, permitted to mature and ultimately returned to their natural environment.

Delightful portions of the program showed the young orangutans luxuriating in the security of their sanctuary. Scenes of authorities picking up chained and abused young apes had a slightly staged look but probably were accurate enough simulations of real conditions.

Opening lead—♦ K

There is one time when you shouldn't finesse. That time is when you know that it isn't going to work. In this type of situation you may be able to find some way to get your trick in spite of the finesse being wrong.

West was a book bidder and South knew that he needed the queen of clubs in order to have the values for his opening diamond bid.

Was that queen of clubs likely to be doubleton. In that case South could simply play out the ace and king and drop the lady.

South led West hold the first trick, won the diamond continuation and led the suit back. West cashed two more diamonds while East had jettisoned a spade and two hearts.

Now West led the deuce of spades to South's queen. South led a spade right back. West won with the ace and played a third spade. Now South ran off his three hearts and West led the last spade go. South had a perfect count and knew that everyone was down to three clubs.

He also knew where the queen was. West needed it for his opening bid.

This left South with one shot in his locker. He had been careful to win the third heart in his own hand. Now he plumped the jack of clubs on the table. West ducked. South led it ride and claimed the balance. It wouldn't have done West any good to cover. South would have won in dummy and finessed successfully against East's 10 on the way back.

What do you do now?

A—Bid two spades, but if you want to pass, we won't quarrel with you.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You elect to pass and your partner continues to three diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Monday
His Last Request
Andrew Johnson, 17th U.S. president, was buried wrapped in the Stars and Stripes, with a copy of the Constitution under his head. The patriot's last request was: "Pillow my head on the Constitution of my country. Let the flag of the nation be my winding sheet."

Sox Hit 4 Homers To Beat Angels

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Kasko knew his Boston Red Sox had power so he waited patiently for the explosion. It finally came, leaving the California Angels slightly shellshocked.

The Red Sox warmed up for Friday night's four home run barrage with three the previous night against Oakland with ringleader Carl Yastrzemski drilling two roundtrippers and George Scott and Reggie Smith one apiece in Boston's 8-3 pounding of the Angels.

In other AL contests, Oakland buried Washington 12-5, Baltimore blasted Minnesota 9-3, New York trimmed Milwaukee 6-3, Cleveland stopped Kansas City 7-5 and Chicago belted Detroit 13-6.

Over in the National League, Cincinnati got past Pittsburgh 6-4, Atlanta nipped Chicago 3-2, Houston dropped St. Louis 9-3, New York beat San Diego 2-1, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 3-1 and Montreal topped Los Angeles 3-1.

The Red Sox, who led the majors with 197 homers last year, upped their output to 22 in 20 games with seven in their last two games.

Yastrzemski started the shelling of Angels starter Tom Murphy with a two-run belt in the opening inning, Scott creamed his south of the season leading off the second and Smith clubbed his fourth of the year in the seventh.

Yaz connected for a solo shot off reliever Eddie Fisher in the fifth.

Scott also drilled a run-scoring double and single, backing the route-going performance or Ray Culp, who retired 17 batters in a row at one point and allowed six hits in all.

Dick Green's three-run homer and a bases-loaded triple by winning pitcher Jim Hunter helped the A's snap a five-game losing string. Aurelio Rodriguez and Lee Maye cracked homers for the Senators, whose four-game winning streak was stopped.

Rookie Terry Crowley, given a starting opportunity while outfielder Frank Robinson rested, slammed a three-run homer—his first in the majors—to help Dave McNally to his fourth victory of the season. Dave May added a bases-loaded triple for the Orioles while Cesar Tovar crashed a homer for the Twins.

Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer, each with two hits, also drove in a pair of runs, backing Mel Stottlemyre's second victory after three losses.

Obituaries
REX BOBO

Dialog On Campus

One of the big issues on the college campuses today is freedom of speech. In essence, this means a chance to hear controversial speakers.

The American Association of University Professors, reporting on recent investigations, lists the University of Mississippi, the University of Oklahoma and Indiana State University as places where there is too stringent limitation on this part of academic freedom.

Those who control the campus rules on speakers do have a responsibility which cannot be ignored. But it would be well to recognize that banning a speaker sought by some small campus group of students often creates more controversy than his appearance would.

Academic freedom applies most directly to the classroom, but in today's educational world the campus has become the classroom. Prudence should rise above prejudice. — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal.

Also To Be Feared

Our thinking has become so involved concerning drugs that it was quite a jolt to read a headline in the Christian Science Monitor that read — "Alcohol No. 1 problem." It says that alcohol is a greater problem among teenagers than drugs in S.C. This conclusion was arrived at through a poll of 13,000 members of the state's graduating classes. It showed that only 1.85 percent of those questioned had ever experimented with drugs.

On the other hand 75 percent said that they had experimented with alcohol in some form. And 14.4 percent said that they had had a drink at least once or twice a week. The South Carolinians are worried. They have stepped up their guidance work considerably. Again, this could happen here. — Winter Haven (Fla.) Daily News Chief.

Late To Work

Tardiness in arriving at the scene of labor has become epidemic among white collar workers, according to a survey of employers. It has reached the point of defiance, according to one office manager, who attributes the trend to availability of jobs.

That supply and demand figures in this trend is apparent in a news item in the Wall Street Journal, which reports this problem is disappearing in brokerage houses since they started laying off employees because of the stock slump. — Monroe (La.) Morning World

Age of Maturity

While listening sympathetically to the pleas of all classes and ages of persons for better representation, we have not yet become convinced of the wisdom of cutting the voting age from 21 to 18 years of age. Granting that many a youth of 18 has more sense than some gaffers of 65, and conceding that extension of the franchise might not really make much difference in the outcome of elections, we still have a feeling that somewhere a minimum age is in order. Otherwise, why discriminate against bright youngsters of 17- or younger. — Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier.

Law Institute For Officials

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A former deputy attorney general announced today the formation of an Election Laws Institute to educate election officials, candidates and the public about the new Arkansas election laws.

Thomas A. Glaze, a Little Rock lawyer who resigned from the attorney general's office earlier this year, said the institute would be a private, non-profit and nonpartisan organization that will operate statewide. He said the organization had the endorsement of the chairmen of both major state political parties.

Glaze, who was the coauthor of the new Election Code Act passed in 1969, said he founded TEL Institute to fill a void in the Arkansas election system.

Finch Denies Any Retreat on Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch has denied the Nixon administration is on the verge of abandoning its massive welfare reform plan—a disclaimer shared by the senior Republican on the Senate Finance Committee.

"I think they want to push it right on through," Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told a reporter Thursday after speculation was raised during committee questioning of Finch that the plan might be scrapped.

Finch, who was called back for a third day to testify today, entered a quick denial that the administration was giving up on the program, already approved by the House.

Williams also said he cannot support the bill in its present form.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okl., said at Thursday's hearing rumors were circulating the administration had decided to drop the plan. He said he tended to agree with the rumors because of what he called a lukewarm presentation by Finch and Health Education and Welfare Department officials.

Finch said the legislation is extremely complex and acknowledged it has been difficult to answer questions tossed at him, but he added his department will produce all the information requested.

A main flap in the hearing Thursday involved figures in the HEW presentation showing that, in some cases, a family could end up with less total income if the father or mother took a job than if the family head did not work and simply drew the expanded benefits.

The administration's bill sets a yearly $1,600 family income floor for a family of four and brings the working poor into the program for the first time. Other benefits push the amount higher. One of the main purposes of the bill is to increase the incentive to work to welfare recipients.

But Williams said the bill would do just the opposite in some cases.

For example, a Chicago, Ill., four-person family would have a total income from various benefits of $6,206 if the household head earned only $1,000 a year and a smaller total income of $6,109 if the father or mother had much higher earnings of $5,560, the HEW presentation showed.

A New York City family of the same size could have total income of $7,614 without any earnings at all, but only $7,743 if the family head had a job which paid $6,550.

The income in these cases included benefits from food stamps or commodities, medical aid, and public housing.

Williams said he believed one reason the HEW witnesses seemed lukewarm was that they had compiled this information for him on the eve of the hearings, and the figures probably surprised them.

Finch and his associates agreed the figures were accurate but insisted they were not typical cases.

It's Long Work-Day for Top Secretary of Gov. Rockefeller

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The work day begins about 7:30 a.m. and concludes at dusk or thereafter for Robert W. Faulkner, 31, who occupies a desk adjacent to the governor's office.

That is the first hint about the nature of the life of the executive secretary to the state's chief executive, Winthrop Rockefeller.

Faulkner's position is the highest thus far in an upward drift that began with the day when he decided to question the theory that only rich people were in the Republican party.

"I decided there just couldn't be that many rich people," Faulkner recalls with a smile at his boyhood revelation.

Since then, he has pursued his interest in the GOP with vigor, first as a Young Republican, then as an increasingly important figure in the Rockefeller organization.

Eventually, he suspects, he will be drawn into politics as a candidate, although he firmly discounts rumors that he has a yen to seek the attorney general's office this year.

"I don't know that I'll ever be a candidate, but I kind of think that someday I'll decide to run for something," Faulkner said.

He has had one small fling

Compton for Teacher Pay Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Robert C. Compton of El Dorado, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, says he thinks the $20 million for teachers' salaries proposed by the Arkansas Education Association is within reason.

Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, the only other official Democratic gubernatorial candidate, says he has a "deep interest" in the needs for teachers, but that the AEA recommendation, "like any other, has got to be properly studied and evaluated."

Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the AEA, said Wednesday that the association will seek an additional $30 million from the 1971 legislature for teachers' salaries and school operations.

Rozzell said that $20 million would provide a 10 per cent salary raise for teachers in 1971-72 and an additional 10 per cent raise in the next fiscal year. He said the other $10 million would provide increases for school personnel other than teachers and for operational and maintenance funds for schools.

Compton said he was well aware of teacher needs and of those of state employees, but said "the problem remains one of money."

"What new taxes can be successfully enacted and paid by the citizens of this state and what priority is going to be granted to the expenditure of our revenues, recognizing that we are a relatively poor state with almost the lowest per capita income?" Compton asked, as a candidate — back at Malvern High School, where he was student body president in his senior year. He also made All-Region 3AA as a halfback on the football team that year.

Faulkner went to Ouachita Baptist University—then a college—and earned his bachelor's degree, then was commissioned through the ROTC program and went on military duty in the United States.

His tour of duty was extended to 18 months as a result of the Berlin Crisis.

Free from military service, he resumed his college career and obtained his law degree from the University of Arkansas.

While at Ouachita, he decided to write a paper on the Republican party and the two-party concept, mainly because history books extolled the virtues of America's two-party system and Arkansas was a one-party—Democratic party—state.

His inquiry led him to Little Rock, where, he said, resided the only Republican anybody seemed to know about.

Faulkner then organized a small Young Republicans Club at OBU and a state YR convention at Fort Smith turned up two such clubs — that of OBU and one at Fort Smith Junior College, where the convention was held.

"There were about enough of us to count on your fingers," Faulkner said.

He became YR state president, served two terms, found a place in the Rockefeller campaign organization, then managed Rockefeller's campaign office, became the governor's liaison with the House of Representatives and, finally, succeeded Marion Burton as executive aide.

The job is an official one in state government and the salary is little more than $8,000 per year, although many suspect that Rockefeller supplements Faulkner's salary. Faulkner will not discuss salary supplements.

As executive secretary, Faulkner is expected to handle a wide variety of matters in a number of different manners. He deals with reporters' questions on a day-to-day basis, he tries to solve problems which individual citizens bring to his attention, he delivers to the governor all necessary information surrounding any particular issue that calls for a decision by Rockefeller.

Still an active Republican, despite stacks of letters and memorandums which eat deeply into his time, Faulkner also makes a few speeches on the GOP and state government.

He has been stand-in for Rockefeller at some functions, including a few protests at the state Capitol.

Faulkner describes Rockefeller as "a good man to work for," and says the governor "doesn't lose his cool, he's very fair and objective and can separate the emotions from the facts."

Now residents of Little Rock, the Faulkners have three children.

Nixon Yields To Demands For Meeting

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to demands from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, President Nixon has agreed to sit down with four congressional committees Tuesday to discuss the use of U.S. ground troops in Cambodia.

The first such face-to-face dialogue in half a century was set up Friday when the Foreign Relations Committee, miffed because it hadn't been consulted in advance, voted unanimously to demand an audience with the President.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon heard of the vote through a news account. "The President thought it would be a good thing," Ziegler said.

The Senate and House committees deal with foreign relations and military affairs. Many of their members have expressed opposition to introducing U.S. ground troops in Cambodia, a move Nixon said is designed to clean out North Vietnamese sanctuaries.

Nixon's decision, announced before a nationwide television audience Thursday night, continued to stir up controversy in Congress and across the nation.

Foreign Relations Chairman J. W. Fulbright said in an Indianapolis, Ind., speech Friday night the decision "shows a lack of respect for the Senate's constitutional responsibilities in foreign relations."

"The administration has followed the example of its discredited predecessor by succumbing once again to the incautious counsels of its generals," Fulbright said.

But Nixon's predecessor, former President Lyndon B. Johnson, in his first speech since leaving office over 15 months ago, told a Chicago audience Nixon deserves the support of all the people who love freedom.

"He has mine," he said. "No spot in this nation is more than 30 hours away from Berlin, Tokyo, and Moscow, and from Phnom Penh or Vientiane or Saigon," Johnson said.

"American cannot withdraw from the world." Others backing the President's move included Sens. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., Milton Young, R-N.D., and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in a speech at Boston, called Nixon's actions "madness." He said the president's advisers have faith in only one force—"in planes, in guns, in battalions and in rifles."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Nixon should have consulted Congress first. "We have bought the Vietnamese five years of time, and I don't think we can afford to buy them any more. I am confident the Vietnamese can fight their own war."

The Cambodian decision triggered a wave of protest on the nation's college campuses. The National Student Association charged Nixon with "misuse of presidential power" and called for the House to bring impeachment proceedings against him.

The Americans for Democratic Action also said it considers the President's step "just cause for the initiation of impeachment proceedings" and termed the deployment of U.S. combat forces into Cambodia as flagrant as the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The President defended his decision during a Friday morning Pentagon appearance, and added, "What really matters is if it turns out all right."

Nixon's Tuesday afternoon meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee will be preceded by a morning meeting of the President and the Senate and House military panels.

The meeting will be the first such encounter since 1919 when Republican Henry Cabot Lodge led his GOP-dominated Foreign Relations Committee in discussions with President Woodrow Wilson over the World War I treaty and the League of Nations.

Special Events Are Planned Music Week, First Week in May

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Next week, the first full week in May, will be observed in Hope and throughout the United States as National Music Week. Members of the Friday Music Club have special events planned for the musical enjoyment of all in our area.

Special attention is called to a display at Anderson-Frazier Insurance Agency honoring Mrs. Ralph Routon, a talented musician whose contributions have meant much to the musical life of several generations in our vicinity.

Lillian Lenora Carrigan Routon was born in Washington, Ark., March 27, 1899, and moved to Hope with her parents, Steve and Nora Carrigan, two years later. She had a brother, Steve Carrigan, Jr., now deceased, and a sister, Mrs. T.S. McDavitt, 320 West Avenue B.

She began studying music during her first year of school, and her first teacher was Miss Vernon Winston. At 18 years of age she entered the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and studied for several years.

Her duties as a local church organist were not confined to one denomination. A Methodist herself, in 1921 she began playing the organ in the Presbyterian Church. In years to follow she also served as organist in the Baptist, Episcopal and Methodist Churches.

As a composer, her most prolific years were 1932-33, when she wrote music for many famous poems as well as for the poetry of her friends. Her composition didn't cease after these two years, but this time was when she did the most of it.

Mrs. Routon is the mother of a daughter, Mrs. James (Lenora) Cross of Washington, D.C., and a son, William Ralph Routon, Jr., of Hope. She has 6 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild.

Always interested in young people and in furthering their appreciation of good music, Mrs. Routon will heartily approve of the Music Week Specials for Children to be heard on KXAR at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday of next week. The same is true of the costumed performance.

Students at Ohio State Make Peace

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The authorities decided to let student leaders try to stop disorders at Ohio State University, and within a few hours peace was restored.

"They really gave us a big assist," National Guard Col. James Folk said of about 150 student marshals who patrolled the campus, calming down youths and dispersing crowds Thursday evening.

He gave them "full credit" for quieting the campus, where student rioting Wednesday night and Thursday morning injured scores, resulted in 500 arrests and left widespread damage.

About 1,800 National Guard troops and large concentrations of city police and Ohio highway patrol officers remained in the university area today, but only a few scattered incidents were reported.

A group of student assembly members, headed by Tim Sheeran, student body president, received permission from authorities Thursday afternoon to appoint marshals to assist authorities in restoring order.

Es word of the agreement was passed around the campus, sporadic clashes between students and police began to taper off.

Meanwhile, University and Grant hospitals reported they had treated 139 persons, mostly for cuts, bruises and tear gas burns. Eighteen persons received minor gunshot wounds.

Of about 500 persons arrested, most were students. They have been suspended by University President Novice Fawcett.

The disorders evolved from a somewhat disorganized student strike Wednesday by a group supporting demands for more black students and faculty and severance of all ties with war research and the military.

The first music club organized in Hope was the Pianist Club, and this musical lady was a charter member. Later, when the Friday Music Club was begun, she became a member and served as its second president. Today, she has the distinction of being an honorary member of the club.

No personality sketch of Mrs. Routon would be complete without mention of her ability as a Bible scholar. For years she taught a Sunday School Class of adult women in the Methodist Church, and the knowledge, dedication and Christian inspiration which she imparted to others prompted the class members to name it the Lillian Routon Class a number of years ago.

It is, indeed, a pleasure for her friends, most of whom are former pupils, to take this opportunity to salute Mrs. Lillian Routon during National Music Week.

Faubus Ready To Run; Asks For Support

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus said in a telecast Friday night that he was ready to run for governor again and asked Arkansans to notify him of their support.

He said he will announce whether he will run at a news conference on May 16.

Faubus, declaring "I am ready," accused the Rockefeller administration of wasteful policies and revealed a "basic outline" of his own nine-point program.

Faubus, 60, charged Rockefeller with "absentee administration," and an over-reliance on studies.

"As governor, I will act," Faubus said.

He said some persons are becoming convinced that Rockefeller heads "the most spendthrift administration since Reconstruction," and that they want a change for the better.

"A majority of the people want to remove the moneyed colossus of Petit Jean from the governor's office, but they are afraid it can't be done with just any candidate," Faubus said.

"That is why some fine men who already have been nominated for the office and others who are considering the matter have not been able to get off the ground," he said. "Many, many people are looking for the experience, the skill and the plain guts that hopefully can win an election against the Rockefeller organization. This, many people have turned to me and urged that I again seek the governor's office."

Faubus said he had the "training and experience" to bring efficiency to the governor's office and asked for signs of support from those who sympathize with his cause.

"Let me know by telephone, wire, letter or petition," he said. "Set up an organization on the local level and raise funds for campaign expenses."

He said campaign funds collected for him could be deposited in any bank and that all funds "can be returned" if he does not run.

"We cannot hope to match the Rockefeller millions in a campaign, but there must be enough money to pay proper expenses," Faubus said.

Faubus' program pledged efficiency in government, "top priority" to efforts to raise welfare grants, improvement in tourist facilities, expansion of key state health institutions, additional trade schools, efforts to combat pollution, action against misuse of narcotics, rehabilitation in the prisons and a boost in teacher salaries.

"With the . . . urgent need for more finances for these legitimate requirements of public education, it must be recognized that no state or local funds, or federal funds for that matter, should ever be expended in any ridiculous and insane plan of so-called busing to obtain any kind of balance except for one thing — quality education."

U.S. Troops Overrun Cong Base Camps

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today that two American soldiers had been killed in ground fighting in Cambodia. They were the first U.S. battle deaths reported in Cambodia, although Americans have been killed in aircraft shot down over Cambodian soil.

A third American was reported killed when a fighter-bomber crashed in Cambodian territory northwest of Saigon. Sources said a second American aircraft had also gone down, but no details were available.

The two ground troops killed were members of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry regiment, which is participating in the U.S.-South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries in Cambodia ordered by President Nixon.

The fatalities were announced as American troops drove deep into Cambodia and reached the headquarters zone of the supreme Communist command for South Vietnam.

U.S. spokesmen at the scene said a North Vietnamese infantry regiment had fled to the north less than two hours before the Americans and South Vietnamese moved in.

The Americans, spearheaded by a column of tanks, overran several North Vietnamese resistance and seized tons of rice.

But they were still searching for the underground command posts of the Central Office for South Vietnam — COSVN — which controls all military and political operations against the southern half of South Vietnam.

Eight thousand American and 2,000 South Vietnamese troops moved Friday into the headquarters zone, located 30 miles inside Cambodia in an area known as the Fishhook, some 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

More than 100 U.S. B52 raids dropped more than five million pounds of bombs on the area before the ground sweep began.

The ground troops are part of a 25,000-man force of U.S. and South Vietnamese forces sweeping a 200-mile stretch of eastern Cambodia in the joint invasion against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries across the Cambodian border from South Vietnam.

Four other South Vietnamese task forces with American advisers have invaded the area known as the Parrot's Beak, 55 miles to the southwest, and have penetrated some 30 miles into Cambodian territory.
